Thousands could receive partial ticket refund after fee delay

► Service Alberta defers $15 for licence plate queries until September ► Council to decide on motion to reimburse those who have paid extra on parking tickets aimed at covering fee

JEREMY

@METRONEWS.CA

Delaying the implementation of a provincial service fee could put some spending money back in the pockets of Calgary parking violators.

The decision by Service Alberta on Thursday to delay a $15 fee for licence plate queries came after much criticism from municipalities, who will be facing millions in lost revenue.

In response to the planned fee, city council voted in favour of raising the cost of a parking ticket by $15 last month, and roughly 10,000 fines have been issued since, said Calgary Parking Authority interim general manager Troy McLeod.

He said the authority will now recommend to city council that the fee-increase schedule be amended — reducing the fee back to the original cost for the time being — and those who have paid extra be reimbursed.

Despite the logistical headache, McLeod said the province's decision was a step in the right direction.

"We appreciate the time that we're being granted to look at this ... because then we will have better knowledge around the number of times that we are looking up licence plates."

Service Alberta has maintained the fee increase is necessary to cover rising costs of maintaining a provincial licence plate database. Spokesperson Sharon Lopatka cautioned that though the fee has been deferred, it will still be a reality in the fall.

"It's giving municipalities time to adjust to the search fee, as we will continue to talk with them and look at ways to manage that search fee," she said.

Mixed reaction

While the Calgary Parking Authority was happy with Thursday's decision on the licence plate fee, it was met with mixed reaction by other public figures.

► Real solution: Calgary Mayor Naheed Nenshi called it a "partial solution at best," adding, "the real solution is for the provincial government to reduce its costs so that this new fee is not charged at all."

► Police: Calgary Police Commission chair Mike Shaikh said the added time will help as the local police service looks at ways to counter a $10,000 hit daily to cover the fee. "What we need to do is find solutions and the solution could be adding to user pay," he said.

With the fate of an estimated 400 animals in the balance, groups are coming forward offering the safe transport of Guzoo's threatened residents.

Terra Johnston, executive director of the Alberta SPCA, said the society's role has become one of protector during the roadside zoo's decommission process.

"We have a member there to ensure the animals are being cared for humanely," she said. "Beyond that, we have not been asked to participate."

Julie Woodyer, campaigns director with watchdog Zoocheck Canada, calls the province's move to close Guzoo "a big, big step in its history."

Next, new homes will be needed and Zoocheck is prepared to foot the bill.

"(Guzoo owner Lynn Gustafson) will be losing the controlled species. He has no say in that," Woody-er said.

While neither the Calgary Zoo nor the Edmonton Valley Zoo are on her list of recommended relocations, about 24 accredited zoos and sanctuaries are.

"I also offered to Mr. Gustafson directly and initially he sent me a note saying he was looking at downsizing, and (asked if we would) take these few animals," Woodyer said.

"I said I only agreed if he would guarantee he wouldn't replace them. I never heard back."

Details

- 1 Alberta SPCA has the authority to press charges but has said it has no plans to do so.
- 2 Lynn Gustafson told Metro on Wednesday he was not sure what would become of his seized animals, but said he had heard talk of some going to slaughter.

Three Hills planning to fight for future of Guzoo

In the face of one of its major attractions facing closure, Three Hills Mayor Tim Shearlaw is planning a future for the town he hopes will include Guzoo.

"My feeling is that of disappointment," Shearlaw said.

The mayor of the town 127 kilometres from Calgary said he thought when the conditional permit was issued April 1, owner Lynn Gustafson would be told to make changes.

Instead, the town — which sees a number of visitors each year from Guzoo traffic — learned with everybody else Wednesday that results of a third-party review had led the province to revoke Guzoo's licence.

He plans to discuss options for the zoo with Gustafson over the weekend.

"We're not done. We will work with Lynn and we will work with the province of Alberta. If they say there's not a chance for appeal, I will recommend Lynn get a lawyer."

The mayor said the town is "in shock," and he intends to band with nearby municipalities in the fight.

Folding bikes to be allowed on transit

► Calgary Transit planning to announce new rules for compact vessels by July ► Currently, just three bus routes in city allow bikes on board

► Sean Carter, owner of BikeBike Calgary, called new rules that will allow folding bikes on Calgary Transit a "big victory."

JEREMY NOLAIS
@METRONEWS.CA

Selina Renfrow knows all too well the troubles plaguing Calgary cyclists attempting to use transit.

One afternoon last month, she took her five-year-old daughter downtown for the afternoon and the youngster brought her tricycle along to ride.

But trouble emerged when it came time to board the bus home.

"The driver said, 'You know there are no bikes allowed on here, right?' and I said, 'Even tricycles?'" Renfrow recalled. "He said, 'Yep.'"

The driver refused to budge, and the two were forced to get off.

Calgary Transit later apologized for the incident.

Now the organization is planning to unveil new regulations that would allow bikes that fold on-board all buses and C-Trains, said Neil McKendrick, manager of transit planning.

"Essentially when you have a folding bike and you put them into the bag most of them come with, it looks like every other sports bag," he said. "We think this is a marvelous opportunity to basically make the entire transit system accessible to cyclists, providing they are willing to make an individual investment."

Stewart Midwinter with Bike Calgary said many people already smuggle folding bikes on to transit.

"I think this is really positive," he said. "Gas is getting expensive, the economy's not too strong ... This is about making transit more flexible."

Renfrow, who owns a folding bike herself, is in favour of the new policy.

"That's awesome," she said. "That's kind of what's prevented me from commuting to work. I have a little bike, it's not capable of riding ridiculous distances."

Bike policy

► The city's transit bylaw prohibits bikes from being allowed on transit unless bike racks are provided, but Neil McKendrick with Calgary Transit said the new folding bike policy would skirt around that rule.

► Calgary Transit is currently working to notify 2,200 operators, as well as supervisors and peace officers, about the new folding bike policy.

► Stewart Midwinter with Bike Calgary said some folding bikes retail for as little as $200.

Allowing regular bikes on transit creates headaches

Calgary Transit has run as many as six pilot projects over the years where bike racks were installed on buses for a few select routes, but numerous logistical issues emerged, said manager of planning Neil McKendrick.

"Bike racks add about 18 inches to the length of a bus," he said. "So when you stack up a row of bike-equipped buses ...

suddenly you don't have room (in a parking garage)."

McKendrick added that use of the racks by cyclists was sporadic.

► JEREMY NOLAIS

► Buses will soon be more cyclist friendly.

► Mayor Naheed Nenshi speaks at a press conference in Halifax Thursday.

CLOTHED IN CANUCKS JERSEY, STRIPPED OF PRIDE

Mayor Naheed Nenshi was in Halifax Thursday for the big-city mayors' conference, and was cornered by Metro Halifax on his donning of a Vancouver Canucks jersey.

He refused to take off his sport jacket — the only male mayor there to do that.

Q: How was it to wear that jersey?

A: Not much fun. I want to believe in Canadian unity, I really do, but it doesn't mean I really have to cheer for them, does it? Remember that not only do I live in Calgary, I went to school in Boston.

Q: At least it's not an Edmonton Oilers jersey.

monton Oilers jersey.

A: No, this is worse. Yeah, the rivalry between the Flames and the Oilers has fizzled out a little because they're so bad.

Q: How did you get talked into wearing that?

A: They said it was all or nothing. They wouldn't let me come to the press conference otherwise. It's under great protest, but it's all right and I wish them well. I like (Vancouver) Mayor (Gregor) Robertson and Mayor (Dianne) Watts from Surrey, so at least let them have brief, fleeting happiness in their lives.

Northwest fire still a mystery

A fire that occurred in the Royal Oak area and damaged one house Tuesday night is still under investigation.

Neighbourhood residents reported seeing someone throw something into the house before the fire started.

"We have no evidence of anyone throwing anything into the house," said Calgary police Duty Insp. Keith Cain. "The cause of the fire is still unknown."

Some residents believe that there may be bad blood between the former tenants and the home owner.

"It's probably due to the fact that they were maybe a little uptight with the landlord. Maybe he was evicting them," said neighbour Beverley Cepcik.

Children's hospital goes high-tech

The Alberta Children's Hospital has come a long way from one desktop computer 13 years ago to its current four-dozen computers and 200 game consoles available to patients.

The Child Health Computer Program uses technology to help patients pass the time during their stay in the hospital, connect with family and friends, and even stay up to date with schoolwork.

Family members can also use the laptops, desktops and even gaming consoles while in the hospital.

The program is funded solely on donations made to the Alberta Children's Hospital Foundation.

The program's aim is to make life easier for patients and their families. That's why they constantly update their technology and take suggestions.

DOG DAYS OF SUMMER

IN DEFENCE OF ...

MIKE MORRISON
METRO CALGARY

One of the best parts about summer in Calgary is all the street festivals.

You name a neighbourhood and we've got a street festival that celebrates it. Since we're such a sprawling city, they're a great way to explore unfamiliar communities, all the while working on your base tan, eating mini-doughnuts and enjoying the company of strangers.

But as our city grows, so does the festivals' popularity, which means you have to put up with any number of nuisances including: Stepping on at least six dogs, getting your sandal-clad foot run over by four over-sized strollers and, more likely than not, finding a lost child. Ahh, summer.

If you went to last week's Lilac Festival, you know exactly what I'm talking about. While it was great to see so many people strolling down 4th Street, it was also frustrating having to deal with the habits of some Calgarians who seem intent on ruining it for everyone else.

Look, I love dogs. I love big dogs and I love small dogs. Basically, if you sort of look like a dog, I instantly love you. I love dogs so much that I know a street filled with 100,000 people is no place for them. While I get that people might think their dog would enjoy a leisurely afternoon city stroll, I'm here to tell you they don't. Imagine for a moment that you're two feet tall and all of a sudden you're surrounded by people, babies, food and hipsters. No one would like that, especially not our canine friends.

Speaking of kids, when did strollers get so big? More important, what are parents even putting in them? Wandering through Mission, I swear I saw strollers that were bigger than my car. Do you really need a Hummer-sized stroller to enjoy a street festival? If your kid isn't capable of handling a few hours of fresh air without a week's supply of toys, maybe you should just stay at home.

The great thing about Calgary's street festivals is they really do bring out so many different people. But sometimes it would be nice to know that, before people left their houses, they were thinking about the rest of us. (Of course, this is all subject to change once I get a dog or a child. Either way, they'll be on leashes.)

There's no such thing as a free ride? Hah!

► Calgary Transit lets fare-evaders ride for free if they'll fill out a survey detailing why they think they shouldn't have to pay

KATIE TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

For the past two weeks, Calgary Transit has been giving a free pass to Calgarians who failed to purchase a C-Train ticket, as long as they fill out a survey.

In an effort to understand why some Calgarians fork over for their fare and others don't, Brian Whitelaw, co-ordinator of public safety and enforcement, said the transit authority spent the past two weeks surveying users.

Those who are unable to present a ticket have two options: Take the survey or pay the fine.

While fare-evaders throughout the city are rejoicing, those who pay for transit on a daily basis are less than impressed.

"I have to pay when I get on, so other people who get a free ride really annoy me," said Robert Dennis, who uses transit as his main mode of transportation.

Melissa Fulin agreed that letting some people off is unfair.

"There was a time in the past when I didn't have a ticket for the train — I lost my ticket — and I got a $150 fine. So I think it should be the same for everyone."

However, Whitelaw said

► About 96 per cent of transit riders pay for their tickets, says Calgary Transit's Brian Whitelaw. The four per cent who don't are being asked to explain themselves.

there are still uniformed peace officers patrolling the trains and issuing fines.

"If they get caught by the folks doing the study, that will be their lucky day if they choose to take the survey."

To pay or not ...

Calgary Transit is surveying 20,000 to 25,000 transit customers.

► The transit authority will continue issuing the survey over the weekend and will likely wrap things up early next week.

► About 20 transit personnel have been involved.

PRIDE IS ALIVE ON VANCOUVER STREETS

If you saw it live, or even on TV, watching Vancouver's streets erupt in celebration Wednesday night was pretty neat.

On Granville Street, a strip of bars and clubs downtown, more than 40,000 celebrated the 1-0 win, hugging, waving flags and chanting, "We want the cup." It was reminiscent of the 2010 Olympic celebrations.

Another attack on ship

► HMCS Charlottetown commander was given clearance to speak publicly about the May 30 rocket attack, which was first reported Thursday by Metro's Jennifer Taplin

JENNIFER TAPLIN
@METRONEWS.CA

About a dozen rockets were fired at the HMCS Charlottetown off the coast of Libya early Monday.

Crew members aboard the Halifax-based ship witnessed the BM-21 rockets fired in their direction. None of the rockets struck the Charlottetown and there were no casualties.

Cmdr. Craig Skjerpen said the rockets were rapid-fired from a truck on shore. The ship has been primarily stationed outside the Libyan port city of Misrata for several weeks. Skjerpen said the ship was out of the range of the rockets, but they came within about 900 metres.

"It's a very inaccurate weapon with a certain range. We were outside of that range but they were able to get close," he said.

The ship was sailing away from shore and continued on course after the attack. The crew were surprised, but they reacted quickly, Skjerpen said.

The ship didn't fire back because the weapons systems aren't tasked to find small targets on shore.

In most cases, the ship forwards the information so NATO fighter jets take out the threat. A NATO air strike didn't occur in this incident.

It was a closer call than

the May 12 attack on the ship when large-calibre machine gun fire spat at them from small attack boats. That was at night when the shooters couldn't see the ship.

"They're really trying to push the (NATO) ships back from the coast because our presence here stops them from being able to attack the port," Skjerpen said.

New Speaker in the House

► Eight candidates had five minutes to make a stump speech to the Commons ► Campaigns included free ice cream and Starbucks offerings

Conservative MP Andrew Scheer has been elected Speaker of the House of Commons.

The Saskatchewan politician beat out seven other candidates for the position, including six other Tories.

The race came down to a sixth ballot between Scheer and New Democrat MP Denise Savoie — the only woman in the running. Scheer won, supported by the Conservative majority.

The Speaker's job comes with a $233,000 salary, a car and driver, country estate, parliamentary apartment, and considerable power.

In 2005, former Speaker Peter Milliken cast a tie-breaking ballot that saved the Paul Martin government from defeat on a budget vote.

This spring, he ruled that there were grounds to find the Harper government in contempt of Parliament — a judgment that helped trigger the May 2 election. He also cast the tie-breaker in a contentious vote on same-sex marriage.

Scheer, a deputy speaker in the last Parliament, was considered the front-runner for the position.

"I have heard some feedback about my age," said the 32-year-old father of four, to laughter. "I know I am getting quite old now."

This was the first order of business for the 41st session of Parliament.

► Islamist militants burst out of Afghanistan ► U.S., NATO criticized Islamist militants who flowed out of Afghanistan fought a second day of fierce battles with Pakistani security forces Thursday.

It was one of the deadliest clashes on the Pakistan side of the frontier in months.

Authorities said 63 people were dead.

Pakistan's military initially said the assault was the work of about 200 militants, but a government statement put the number at between 300 and 400.

It said the fighters "attacked villages and burned schools."

The new battles bolstered Pakistan army complaints that NATO is failing to crack down on militants sheltering on the

Canada Post workers officially on strike

► Proposed changes to sick leave a key sticking point for union ► Postal strike of 1997 lasted two weeks

Canada Post workers are walking off the job.

About 150 workers in Winnipeg have taken to the picket line for the first in a series of rotating 24-hour strikes.

The Canadian Union of Postal Workers announced plans to strike on Thursday after a last-ditch attempt by the Crown Corporation failed to head off job action.

The union is hoping the strike will encourage management to return to the bargaining table with a proposal that meets the needs of its members.

CUPW says it expects to meet senior post-office management on Friday.

The union says it picked Winnipeg as the first rotating strike location because it was the first city to feel the impact of Canada Post's modernization program.

► Canada Post has said it wants to keep negotiating.

Canada Post has said it needs to address labour costs. It notes the letter-mail business has fallen by more than 17 per cent since 2006 due to digital communications.

Businesses and charities have been preparing for a big financial hit because of the postal strike, while rival courier services have been making plans to accommodate a potential boost in customers.

Dan Kelly of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business estimates the postal strike will cost small businesses between $200 to $250 daily.

Mayors optimistic on securing funds

The mayors of Canada's largest cities will be closely watching Friday's federal throne speech for signs of critical funding commitments and a possible shift in tone from the newly elected majority government.

Several municipal leaders said Thursday they were confident they can secure core funding from the Conservatives, despite the party's newfound dominance in Parliament and Prime Minister Stephen Harper's vow to cut costs.

Halifax Mayor Peter Kelly, who is hosting this year's annual gathering of the Federation of Canadian Municipalities, said he will be looking for any suggestions the government might change the way it does business with municipalities.

Vancouver Mayor Gregor Robertson, chairman of a big-city caucus in the Federation of Canadian Municipalities, said he didn't expect the government's majority status would make any difference in its relations with the cities.

Robertson said the priority for the mayors is getting Ottawa to renew the $1.9 billion for the Building Canada Fund, police officers' recruitment fund and housing programs.

He said they're hoping to meet with the Tories to develop a far-reaching infrastructure plan, which they expect to be formalized in Monday's federal budget.

A fishing boat loaded with hundreds of people desperate for a new life has met disaster in a storm.

At least 200 people were missing Thursday and two were dead after the vessel sank off Tunisia.

The boat was believed to have set sail from Libya and was en route to Italy with an estimated 800 would-be immigrants from sub-Saharan Africa and Asia jammed on board, including women and chil-

The boat stalled some 32 kilometres off the low-lying Kerkennah islands off southern Tunisia on Tuesday night in foul weather.

Some 570 passengers were rescued by the Tunisian coast guard and army on Wednesday.

Authorities attributed the large number of missing to the stampede to get off the ship during the storm.

South Korea and the United States are mounting a joint investigation after American veterans claimed they buried large amounts of Agent Orange at Camp Carroll, a U.S. army logistics base in South Korea, in 1978. Agent Orange was a toxic herbicide used by the U.S. military in the Vietnam War.

Global health officials say the super-toxic bug has sickened at least 1,600 people, mostly in Germany, and killed 18. Women appear to be hit harder than in past outbreaks.

Marketing 'Jobless Paddy'

More than 50,000 people, mostly university graduates, are forecast to leave Ireland by the end of the year Unemployment nears 15 per cent

PETER MORRISON/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tens of thousands of Irish people are leaving their debt-shattered land because they can't find work. But one frustrated job-hunter, 26-year-old Feilim Mac An Iomaire, has refused — and captured the nation's imagination with an inventive PR stunt that highlights his plight.

"Save me from emigration," reads Mac An Iomaire's billboard in the heart of Dublin, the focal point for a novel social media-driven campaign that advertises his 10-month search for work and desire to stay in Ireland.

The effort has cost him about 2,000 euro ($2,896), and given him a priceless global spotlight for his skills as a marketer and deal-maker.

COURT MEDIATION

No resolution in Target name dispute

U.S. retailer Target Corp. and Canada's Fairweather Ltd. have failed to reach a settlement in a legal dispute over who has the right to use the Target name in Canada after a mediation session in Federal Court.

Justice Roger Hughes filed documents Thursday after meeting with both parties together and separately, saying no settlement could be reached and no arrangements were made for the two sides to meet again.

U.S. Target is awaiting a verdict on its request for an injunction to block the company that owns the Fairweather womenswear chain from using the name "Target Apparel" in its stores.

Clothing chain Fairweather Ltd., which has owned the Canadian rights to the name for 10 years, filed its own lawsuit seeking up to $250 million in damages from Target for trademark infringement.

DIVERSITY ON ICE IS THE CANUCK WAY

THE METRO LIST

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO

This week, a nation gets its game back.

Hockey Night in CANADA: After years of putting up with Stanley Cup finals in Carolina (home of hockey ...) or Philadelphia, this year Vancouver is the home team. The last time a Canadian team played in the Stanley Cup was 2007, but the last Canadian team to win it all was Montreal in 1993. Of course, Vancouver's three stars are two Swedes and an American, but who cares?! It's the Canadian way: Diversity in end-to-end action!

2 Speaking of hockey, how about Winnipeg? First, it gets its own edition of Metro and now it's back in the NHL, baby. Talk about a winning streak. The Heart of the Continent does indeed have a pulse, and it's beating stronger than ever. Bring back the Golden Jet to drop the first puck on a new era at the MTS Centre! Randy Carlyle, at least.

"Of course, Vancouver's three stars are two Swedes and an American, but who cares?!"

The Children's Crusade: And speaking of hearts, yours would have to be made of stone not to melt at the sight of cute little kids around the Middle East marching to remember Hamza al-Khatib, the 13-year-old Syrian boy who was tortured to death by his own government. Memo to Syrian President Bashar Assad: When your own kids start marching in the street, you know you're done, dude.

4 Kim Kardashian gets engaged: This is a big deal because a nobody who does nothing has managed to turn her upcoming nuptials into front-page news around the world. Rumour has it she supplied her own engagement ring because boyfriend Kris Humphries couldn't afford all that bling on his NBA salary. LOL!

5 Cellphones could cause cancer: According to the World Health Organization, cellphones could cause brain cancer. C, I told U! IMHO, how else can you explain our mysterious loss of the capacity to spell entire words? The story was followed by an immediate denial from cellphone companies around the world. Who U gonna believe: The WHO ... or the cellphone industry?

Honourable mentions:

6 Shaquille O'Neal retires from the NBA: No more Shaq attacks.

7 Brooke Shields turned 46 this week. Yikes, anybody remember Pretty Baby?

8 Killer tornado strikes ... Massachusetts? Global warning.

9 Man attacks raccoon in Toronto: Man wins battle, but raccoon wins the war for public sympathy.

Dishonourable mention:

10 Bieber alert: Justin and Selena go on a date to the Cheesecake Factory. Justin had cherry cheesecake, his favourite. You were expecting ... what? Fine dining?

Re: Channelling his inner caveman (Metro, June 1)

TORONTO. I'm disappointed in Metro's choice of column. Paul Sullivan is a hypocrite for criticizing Mark Zuckerberg for killing animals for his dinner while Sullivan eats meat!

I admire Zuckerberg for taking this step and not shying away from the reality of how meat ends up on our plates — the animal has to be killed first.

Sullivan is coddling and reassuring himself and meat eaters that it's OK to not think about the fact that the piece of meat they eat during meals was actually once a live animal.

Sullivan also criticizes Zuckerberg for not killing animals that he catches himself, but rather those that are caged/farmed.

Really? What have you done to put that animal on your plate? You buy already slaughtered, nicely cut-up and packaged meat at the grocery store.

Then he makes a snide comment at the end of the article. Sullivan is hypocritical.

Not the same effect as a blackboard

A Malaysian social activist will apologize 100 times on Twitter in an unusual settlement with a magazine publisher in a defamation case, his lawyer said Thursday.

The penalty has sparked debate among Internet users about the pitfalls of social media in Malaysia, where authorities have warned people to be more cautious about what they write on blogs, Facebook and Twitter.

Fahmi Fadzil, an opposition politician's aide and respected commentator on social issues, claimed on Twitter in January that his pregnant friend had been poorly treated by her employers at a magazine run by BluInc Media.

Fahmi wrote an apology to BluInc on Twitter a few hours after making that allegation, but the company's lawyers later sent him a letter demanding unspecified financial damages for defamation and another apology in major newspapers, said Fahmi's lawyer, Syahredzan Johan.

Syahredzan said Fahmi settled the case this week by agreeing to apologize 100 times over three days on Twitter, where he has more than 4,200 followers. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Plot synopsis

From concentration camps in Poland to a mansion in Westchester, N.Y., X-Men: First Class details the evolution of the mutant band of X-Men (and Women). We learn how the two most powerful mutants, Eric Lehnsherr/Magneto (Michael Fassbender) and Professor Charles Xavier (James McAvoy) get along long enough to put together a team of mutants, but soon find themselves on opposite sides in a game of free-to-be-you-and-me.

There aren't action sequences every 10 minutes, the characters actually talk to one another and there's even subtitles! What a relief. After the heavy metal bombast of Thor and the like, X-Men is more like a Radiohead disc — brainy but still fun. What's your take?

Mark Breslin: I've always thought the X-Men franchise was the brainiest of the comic book movies. But this one exceeds all expectations. Setting it in 1962 and weaving real-world events — like the Cuban Missile Crisis — into the plot was a stroke of brilliance. Although ... the setting may be '62 but the hemlines are definitely '67!

RC: The setting may be '62 and the hemlines '67, but the themes are definitely 2011. One quote in particular, "Security is more important than liberty," sounds scarily up-to-date. Add to that some groovy space age design, and Kevin Bacon as best bad guy of the summer so far, and you have a great example of how big blockbuster entertainment can entertain the eye (thank you January Jones and Jennifer Lawrence) and the mind.

MB: January Jones looks great in Barbarella drag, but I still maintain she can't act. But the rest of the cast sure can. James McAvoy brings great humanity — and a great collection of tweed jackets — to his role as a young Professor X. Michael Fassbender seethes as the Holocaust-haunted Magneto. But a clever cameo by a major star beats them all with one succinct and unprintable line. The rest of the film is talky, but it's mostly good dialogue, except for the constant reminders that "we're all outsiders, blah-blah-blah."

RC: It is a bit talkier than you might expect from a big budget comic book movie, but at least they're saying something. It isn't just chatter. I think the reason this movie works so well is that it has the best of both worlds, good blow-'em-up, great villains, cool characters and a script that respects all of the above. If they wanted to make it less chatty, I suppose they could cut some of January Jones's lines. One thing is for sure, acting is not her super power.

MB: I also liked some of the director's '60s touches, like the split screen effects that I haven't seen since The Thomas Crowne Affair — the first one.

The Collapsed*Genre: ThrillerDirector: Justin McConnellStars: John Fantasia, Steve Vieira, Anna Ross

The Collapsed is a very low budget Canadian thriller that is filled with ideas and atmosphere and boasts a decent performance by its lead actor (John Fantasia). But its ambitions unfortunately outreach its budgetary restraints and the supporting actors are given more dialogue than they can believably handle. Still, director Justin McConnell's examination of the end of days at the hand of a plague of madness and the effect it has on an average family is never dull and builds to a suitably berserk climax.

Abrams' pal Grunberg shows up in Super 8

Greg Grunberg is revealing that he has a small role in Super 8, the latest film from his longtime friend J.J. Abrams.

Grunberg previously said only that he'd beg for a part in the film. But he told The Associated Press on Wednesday that people will have to "really, really search to find me" as he portrays a sitcom actor in Super 8.

Grunberg and Abrams have been friends since kindergarten. Grunberg starred in Abrams' home movies growing up and has appeared in most of his professional films and TV shows, including Felicity, Alias, Lost and Star Trek.

Grunberg says of Abrams: "He calls me his lucky charm."

Grunberg stars in the comedy Love Bites, which premieres on NBC Thursday at 10 p.m. Eastern.

Super 8 star not growing up too fast

► 15-year-old Ryan Lee stars in the new J.J. Abrams thriller ► Actor knows the importance of secrets ► Didn't even know what movie he was trying out for

CROUSE
SCENE@METRONews.ca

Who says kid actors can't have normal childhoods? During a phone interview with Ryan Lee, the 15-year-old Super 8 star, he briefly interrupts our chat to act like a youngster. "I just saw a stray dog and I'm trying to catch him right now. What was your question again?"

I had just asked the Austin, Texas native about working with director J.J. Abrams, the megamind behind TV and movie hits like Lost and Star Trek.

"He's just one of those guys who can really make you feel comfortable during a scene," said Ryan. "He's really good at what he does. He's really hands on, down to earth and just an amazing director all round."

Like all of Abrams' projects, the plot of Super 8 has been kept under wraps. Ryan plays one of six kids who witness a mysterious train wreck. "Then everything starts to go crazy," he says, picking up the story. "Once we get away things start to go weird in the town; like people going missing, dogs going missing, home appliances going missing. Nothing can really be explained!"

Other than that he's been sworn to secrecy. "Once I got the call back I had to sign confidentiality papers," he says. "I had to bring them home to my family and they had to sign them too. It was really secretive."

So secretive he didn't know what he was auditioning for when he first went out for the part.

"My agent sent me on the audition and I had no idea it was for J.J. or for Super 8," he says. "The audition was about a girl and a boy fighting about math homework. It had nothing to do with Super 8. Then at the first audition with him this girl next to me said, 'J.J.'s waiting.' I said, 'J.J. who?' Her mouth dropped. I had no idea he was going to be working on this."

Working with Abrams,

he says, was a breeze. "He never yells and with a group of six kids ..." Ryan said. "Not yelling? How do you even do that?"

There's a great buzz around Super 8 right now, even Ryan feels it — "I want to see the movie so bad, just like everybody else," he says — but right now in the days before the movie opens it's back to being a kid and catching that dog.

"I'm trying," he says. "He's fast."

Greenwood taps into his dark side

► Canadian actor says he wasn't ready for how scary it would be filming Cell 213 ► Movie was filmed at a closed down prison in Guelph, Ontario

TREVOR PARKER

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

The new supernatural thriller Cell 213 oozes with creepy atmosphere. Filmed on location at the now-decommissioned Guelph Correctional Centre, it's the story of a hotshot defence attorney (Eric Balfour) locked down in a decaying penitentiary and plagued by nightmarish visions.

The movie also marks the return of Boogeyman director Stephen Kay to the horror genre after a six-year absence. Metro got the chance to chat with three of the film's co-stars about their stretch behind bars: venerable Canadian Bruce Greenwood (The Sweet Hereafter), newcomer Deborah Valente, and Michael Rooker (Henry: Portrait of a Serial Killer).

"I play the warden of a prison that is singularly peculiar in that one of the cells, number 213, is essentially a holding cell between heaven and hell," Greenwood says about his role.

Rooker portrays the warden's thuggish sidekick, a guard who "does whatever my boss tells me to do," Rooker says with an ominous smile. "I control the guy inside 213, making sure he does what he's told."

Valente plays "a government official working on a case regarding excessive force and suicides taking place at the prison."

With Rooker already having made his bones in horror over the years, Greenwood and Valente were excited for their own chance to chill viewers' blood.

"I'm not that familiar with the genre," says Greenwood. "I haven't been in that many movies dealing with the horrific. I wasn't aware how spooky and weird the finished project was going to feel, even though we were shooting in this wet, dark, hideous, enclosed, oppressive prison. While as an actor you absorb that to some degree, I wasn't ready for how scary this film ended up being."

It takes you on a roller coaster, and that's the fun about making a movie like this, letting the audience go with you on the ride," says Valente.

"A roller coaster where the ceilings are low," Rooker adds. "Just remember to duck."

► Bruce Greenwood stars in Cell 213.

James Blake hits the circuit

► He took the booming bass of dubstep, melded it with minimal songwriting ► Up next: eight music festivals

PAT HEALY
SCENE@METRONews.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOSTON

James Blake says he's looking forward to playing the eight festivals that he's booked to play this summer, including Glastonbury, the Pitchfork Music Festival and San Miguel Primavera Sound in Spain.

But during Blake's 22 years of growing up in London, he didn't actually go to that many. The pianist and singer, who incorporates a dubstep sound, says he attended the Exit Festival once, but didn't spend much time looking at the stage.

"If the music is good, I can have an amazing time, but not even necessarily related to that music," he says. "It gives you the space to have a laugh in, but you know that if all else fails, you can just go and listen to some really good music."

You're playing so many different festivals this summer. And I first saw you at the SXSW festival in Texas. Do you ever get to check out any of the other acts?

There are some people I'm really excited to see. I was

"Once the backlash happened, there was a backlash against the backlash."

fascinated by Odd Future at SXSW. To me, it looked like that festival kind of broke them.

They did really well to show people what they can do. I saw them twice. The second time it took me a while to get in. It was like ridiculous hype, to the point that I don't think I've ever seen before.

Well, some might argue that the hype surrounding you comes close.

I just think it's a different kind of hype. It's gone at different speeds and I think they're burning at a different temperature.

► Believe it or not, this is James Blake happy

It has been interesting to watch the online thermometer, so to speak. There was the hype and then there was the backlash...

I loved the backlash. It was really cool.

Oh yeah? Why?

Because once the backlash happened, there was a backlash against the backlash, and it was really interesting to see. To be honest though, I'm not really part of it. I think that's what I've liked about it.

Are you saying you don't have a Google Alert with your name?

(Laughs) I don't think anyone can say they've never done that, but I think it just matters so little to the creation of music what 6 million Internet people think that it didn't really bother me too much. But from what people told me, for every negative thing that was written, there were about 100 positive things.

How different is your new work?

I think it's getting more outward. I've come quite a long way, personally and musically in the last year or so. I've had a lot of new experiences, I've been to a lot of new places, I've met a lot of new people and listened to a lot of new music. That's what touring does. I think my music has kind of developed. I think it's better? I don't know.

When I saw you play live I was really blown away by how deep your bass sound is. When did you first realize its power?

In London, in several clubs that I went to that were just playing dubstep and grime and some garage as well. But it was mainly dubstep, because dubstep just harnessed that power that dub had. It harnessed that sort of sub-bass pressure and just made it a bit more snappy, I think.

When you first started writing songs for your album, did you know that you wanted that to be an element of your sound?

It wasn't really an epiphany as much as an odd process of making a song. With (Feist cover) Limit to Your Love I just recorded the song and then I was writing a beat alongside it, but not related to it, and thought, 'Well, maybe these things go together. They're at a similar tempo. Maybe I could just put a beat under that and see how it sounds.'

There are so few lyrics in your songs. After performing them over and over for the past year, do you find that you're ... Bored?

No, I wasn't going to say that, I swear. Do you find you get something entirely different out of the few words?

I love it, actually, because singing something that is so distilled means that you have to really care about it while you're singing it.

AN ERA OF YOUNG ENLIGHTENMENT

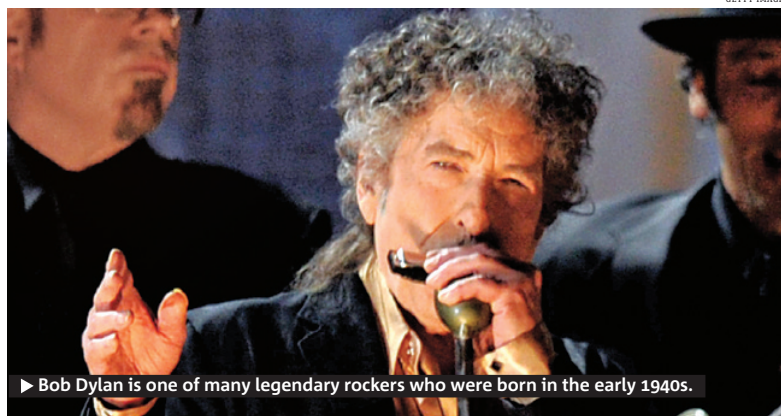

SOUND CHECK

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONWS.CA

One of the many great pleasures that come with travelling abroad is the opportunity to sit back and read foreign newspapers. As I made my way back to Paris to connect with the Eurostar to London, I read an article in the International Herald Tribune that started by congratulating Bob Dylan on his 70th birthday on May 24.

But then the author, David Hajdu, a journalism professor at Columbia University, pointed out an interesting fact: Dylan was far from the only legendary rocker turning 70 in the next 18 months.

► Bob Dylan is one of many legendary rockers who were born in the early 1940s.

John Lennon would have hit 70 last October. George Clinton, Joan Baez and Paul Simon will reach 70 by the end of the year. In 2012, Paul McCartney, Lou Reed, Brian Wilson and Aretha Franklin will all hit that milestone. And were Jimi Hendrix and Jerry Garcia still with us, they'd enter their eighth decade, too.

Coincidence? Not really. All these performers were born in 1941 and 1942, which means they were 14 when they first heard Elvis in 1955 and 1956.

Think back to when you were that age. It was an era of constant discovery, a time when something new about the world revealed itself every day if not every hour. Everything was a wonder and you were open to anything. As you entered the ninth grade, hormones ran amuck, emotional reactions were strong and much of what you experienced at that magical age became imprinted upon you for the rest of your life. Including music.

Now imagine it's 1955. Previous generations didn't have the concept of being a teenager. But in the post-war years — the first years of the Baby Boom — the special social construct, a new developmental framework of teenagerism was invented.

Along with that came the new sounds of rock-'n'-roll, delivered by a new invention called the transistor radio. Together, rock and radio acted as a Trojan Horse for demographic, social, economic, political and sexual revolution that changed the world.

Imagine a 14-year-old Robert Zimmerman hearing Elvis That's All Right Mama after class in Hibbing, Minnesota. Or Lou Reed tuning a late-night rock-'n'-roll station from New York. Full of dreams, impressionable and inspired, they decided to make this music their life's work. It must have been a magical time for them. And we're all richer for it.

Things come full Circuital

► Always searching, Jim James leads My Morning Jacket on new journey with release of Circuital

Jim James is on a spiritual quest of sorts, and you're invited to listen in.

The My Morning Jacket frontman sat in the prayer room of a church in a quiet neighbourhood of his hometown last month, talking about old records, religion, philosophy and his perpetual yearning for understanding. These things colour the Kentucky quintet's much-anticipated new album, Circuital, and James says the record reflects a search he's been on for some time.

"I just want to be peaceful," James said. "I just want to find peace. I don't want to be questioning

Don't get James wrong. He understands he's living the life millions dream of as the head of an increasingly important and influential rock band. That part of his life is great. James is looking for solace in other places as well, however. He jokingly calls himself a recovering Catholic and says he's given up on organized religion. He's now seeking comfort from other sources.

"There's so much stuff that you just don't need in your brain that they hammered there so young and you're trying to deal with it," James said. "I don't consider myself any faith. I just try to listen to all faiths and all ideas and sift out what I believe and what I don't."

Increasingly James is finding answers in music. Long a rock 'n' roll fan, he started to grow uninterested and turned to different forms of music to feed his need for new sounds. His discovery of soul music has influenced his own music over the last five years. More important, it's opened his mind about the possibilities of life.

More music, more female leads and more daytime talk are on their way to CTV, the top-rated network announced Thursday as it paraded stars Debra Messing, Anderson Cooper, Christina Ricci and the supporting cast of The Big Bang Theory for media and ad buyers.

The broadcaster says it's adding 16 shows to the fall lineups of CTV and CTV Two, previously known as A Channel. They include Simon Cowell's new singing competition The X Factor; Messing's Broadway-themed drama Smash, produced by Steven Spielberg; Cooper's Donahue-inspired chat show Anderson; and Ricci's '60s-era flight attendant drama Pan Am.

The main network's new titles include the Whitney Cummings comedy Whitney; the crime/mystery Unforgettable; a reboot of Charlie's Angels; the fairy-tale-inspired crime drama Grimm; and the fantasy drama Once Upon a Time.

Pan Am features a quartet of female leads including francophone actress Karine Vanasse, a native of Drummondville, Que., who makes her major network debut after 15 years of working mostly in Quebec film.

"It's so unusual to have a French character as one of the leads," Vanasse said at a morning press conference. "It was amazing for me. It was completely unexpected."

"I always thought it would be really difficult for me to get something there," says Vanasse, who got the job with her first audition for U.S. television.

"It's good to see that now it's possible. To think that there's a place for a French girl, it's cool."

Messing's Smash; the gossip dramedy G.C.B. with Kristen Chenoweth; and Ashley Judd's Missing are slated for midseason.

Many of those celebs attended a splashy presentation for ad buyers Thursday in an annual tradition known as the "up-front," when broadcasters seek early ad deals for their upcoming season.

The supporting cast of Big Bang appeared the crowd with some local humour.

"We are really thrilled to be back in Vancou... — in Toronto," joked Simon Helberg, who plays the hapless Howard Wolowitz on the show.

"I know you guys take that really seriously. I don't want you to throw hockey pucks at me or anything."

Other stars offered a hint at what was to come next fall, including reality TV star Kendra Wilkinson.

"I promise you one thing: You'll see me, and a lot of parenting, a lot of being a wife and a mother, and a whole lot more booty-shaking. Woo!" said Wilkinson, who stars on Kendra.

Cooper took the opportunity to poke fun at her only a few minutes later.

"I actually have prepared a talk for you about what the show is. Unfortunately, Kendra stole all my lines — because if there is one term to describe Anderson, it's 'booty-shaking,'" he teased.

"So there's going to be two booty-shaking shows on, but you're going to have to pick and choose."

Citytv announced a lineup Monday that includes Spielberg's dinosaur drama Terra Nova, while Global detailed its slate Tuesday, including a North American adaptation of the U.K. crime series Prime Suspect. CBC-TV is set to unveil its shows on June 8.

Returning series on CTV include The Big Bang Theory, Grey's Anatomy, American Idol, Flashpoint, The Amazing Race, The Mentalist, Dancing With the Stars and Castle. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Paul Gross develops horse movie

► CTV talking up the project ► Production set to begin in early 2012

Paul Gross is developing a TV movie about a father and daughter who inspire a community to save two horses trapped on a snowy B.C. mountainside.

CTV says The Horses Of McBride is scheduled to begin production in early 2012.

It's one of several upcoming projects the network is touting as it prepares to detail a fall and winter lineup at a formal presentation for ad buyers Thursday.

Citytv and Global announced their lineups earlier this week, listing big U.S. purchases including Citytv's dinosaur drama Terra Nova and Global's crime series Prime Suspect.

► Actor Paul Gross

Bell Media says their schedule will include new seasons of Flashpoint, The Listener and The Borgias.

It has also ordered the drama Highland Gardens for MuchMusic and MuchMore, and the animation and sketch comedy series, Picnicface for The Comedy Network.

It will also soon begin production on two previously announced pilots, Saving Hope and Stay With Me.

Erica Durance of Smallville stars in the Toronto-set medical drama Saving Hope, while Stay With Me centres on an at-home mother turned lawyer who uses her wit and maternal intuition to find justice for her clients.

Global reveals its fall lineup

A new take on the British drama Prime Suspect, an animated version of Napoleon Dynamite and the return of Dave Foley and Sarah Michelle Gellar to series television are among the highlights of Global TV's fall lineup.

Global's parent company, Shaw Media, announced a prime-time roster that includes six new dramas and six new comedies.

They include a small-screen adaptation of John Grisham's The Firm; Gellar as a woman who takes over her estranged twin sister's identity in Ringer; the rookie cop drama The 2-2, executive produced by Robert De Niro; and Foley's sitcom How to be a Gentleman.

Over on specialty channel Slice, two reality show staples get a Canadian spin: Real Housewives Vancouver and Intervention Canada.

► Maria Bello stars in the TV show Prime Suspect.

The new shows were to be detailed at a glitzy downtown presentation aimed at ad buyers.

Citytv announced its lineup Monday, touting buzzed-about series including the dinosaur drama Terra Nova and J.J. Abrams' thriller Person of Interest.

Fresh comedies include Are You There, Vodka? It's Me, Chelsea, inspired by comedian Chelsea Handler's memoir and the animated series Allen Gregory with the voice of Jonah Hill as a precocious seven-year-old.

► Tia Carrere arrives at the Sports Spectacular event on May 22, in Los Angeles, Calif. Carrere will be a guest at this month's Calgary Entertainment and Comic Expo, where she will likely run into fans of both her acting and singing.

► Honolulu native Tia Carrere has come a long way since playing rock singer Cassandra on Wayne's World

Tia Carrere has found success in movies, TV and the music world. But there's one project the diverse performer likely won't be tackling anytime soon: a reality show about her life.

"Having all of these — quote — 'reality' shows where cameras follow you around and that sort of thing? I just think it creates a slow erosion of our sense of well-being," the Relic Hunter star said in a telephone interview with The Canadian Press.

"We feel like we have to live a more glamorous life and there's something wrong with our reality. The average viewer doesn't realize that those things are the furthest thing from reality," she added.

"It's like the Don Henley song Dirty Laundry. Everyone wants to see. They're scripted for drama, for conflict, for marketing. It's not reality. So don't compare your reality to it and think there's something wrong where you are."

You can take it from the tone of her remarks that she will not be following the example of some other stars and looking for her own reality show, although she was a contestant on ABC's Dancing with the Stars.

"There are things I could be doing right now but do I want to do a reality show? No. Sometimes taking just anything that comes along isn't the best choice."

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Back to the music

These days Carrere is living in Los Angeles and focusing on her first love — music.

► She has recorded four CDs has won two Grammy Awards in the now discontinued category of best Hawaiian music album.

► "It's soul put into sound. I started out singing. I never wanted to be an actress which is the weirdest thing. I always wanted to be a singer and that's how I express myself best is by singing," said Carrere.

► "We're actually looking to do an English language record next," she adds.

From tweet to novel

► Inspiration for Caissie St. Onge's new vampire book came from Twitter

NATASHA LEVINGER
SCENE@METRONWS.CA

What started out as funny banter on Twitter became the inspiration for television writer Caissie St. Onge's first young-adult novel, Jane Jones: Worst. Vampire. Ever.

"I was on Twitter making fun of vampire movies and TV shows," remembers St. Onge.

"I said that if you were a teenager who suddenly became a vampire in real life it would make you even more different and an outsider, and with my luck I would be blood-intolerant."

With that tweet, her novel was born. And while the protagonist is indeed an ageless blood-intolerant teenage vampire, Jane Jones reads more like a humorous coming-of-age novel than a Twilight rip-off.

This was St. Onge's intention all along.

"The vampire part is the hook, but it's not just about that. It's about a girl and her relationship to her family and peers and finding people that you fit in with," she says.

To capture that unique angst, St. Onge channelled her own awkward high school years.

"I remember my teenage years very clearly; feeling trapped and wanting so many things. In the case of Jane Jones, she is stuck and is never going to get beyond this period in her life unless something really drastic happens," she says.

Unlike many current young-adult novels which are so serious and heavy, Jane Jones is funny; St. Onge cultivated her humour as the assistant to such greats as David Letterman and Rosie O'Donnell.

She especially credits O'Donnell with cultivating her talent.

"She always introduced me as a writer," St. Onge says.

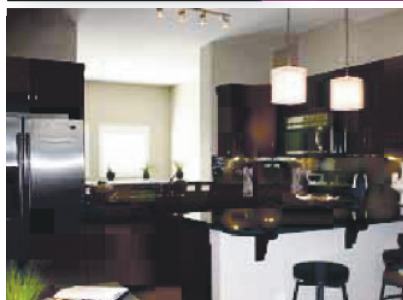

"It made me understand that just because you're not drawing a paycheck for your writing doesn't mean that you're not a writer. If you're writing things, that makes you one."

Watson, Dan Savage, among Webby honourees

The Jeopardy-playing IBM computer Watson has been named person of the year by the Webby Awards.

The Webbys, which honour Internet achievement, announced their special honourees Thursday.

The recently disbanded computer group LCD Soundsystem was chosen artist of the year. The band presented their final concert at Madison Square Garden in a live webcast in April.

It Gets Better Project founder Dan Savage will be honoured for special achievement. Savage's on-line video campaign has urged young people to stand up to bullying against lesbian, bisexual, gay and transgender teens.

Director Adam McKay and Chris Henchy, co-founders of the comedy website Funny or Die, will be honoured as film and video person of the year. In the earlier-announced Webby winners, Funny or Die led with a total of nine awards. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

From Friends to frenemies?

► Reported 'tension' brewing between Aniston, Cox

Former Friends co-stars Jennifer Aniston and Courteney Cox may be on their way to being former friends in real life, according to Popeater.

Sources say the actresses no longer hang out as frequently as they used to and haven't been photographed together in nearly a year.

Plus, one source adds, there is "tension" between the two over Cox's behaviour since her separation from David Arquette and rumoured fling with Cougar Town co-star Brian Van Holt. "Jen thinks Courteney is acting callous by running around with this guy but refusing to file divorce papers. Like she's playing mind games with David," the source says. Aniston's rep, however, tells E! Online the story is "a complete fabrication."

Kravitz wears the pants in this one

X-Men: First Class co-stars Michael Fassbender and Zoe Kravitz have been turning heads in New York lately as the pair reportedly can't keep their hands off each other, according to Us Weekly.

In fact, sources say, the two actors reportedly began dating during production on their film last year but have been keeping the romance under wraps.

"They're really low-key, but they have a great time together just talking music or movies. "They really didn't want to be a topic of conversation during the press for X-Men," a source says, adding that Kravitz tends to wear the pants in the relationship. ● METRO

Justin 'hooking up' with Olson twin, says source

Justin Timberlake has been a busy man since he broke up with Jessica Biel, dodging romance rumours about him and Olivia Wilde and Friends with Benefits co-star Mila Kunis.

Now Timberlake is said to be spending quality time with Ashley Olsen, according to Hollyscoop.

"They are hooking up," a source says of the pair, who have been spotted together at an SNL after-party, two Broadway shows and a polo match recently.

"They're really trying to keep it on the down-low."

Phillippe, Seyfried off again: Report

BREAK UP. After seven months of on-again, off-again dating, Amanda Seyfried and Ryan Phillippe have reportedly called it quits once again — and this time for good, according to Us Weekly.

But from what sources say, the split was hardly a rough one. "They were always seeing other people," a source tells the magazine. "There's no bad blood. They're cool."

Lautner's dad causing trouble

FATHER-SON. While Taylor Lautner is trying to transition from Twilight heartthrob to action star with his upcoming film choices, he won't be doing it with publicity firm Slate PR by his side, as the company reportedly dropped Lautner as a client after just three months, according to the Hollywood Reporter.

The reason for the split? Lautner's father and producing partner, Daniel Lautner, "isn't the easiest guy to work with" and proved to be too involved in the young actor's career choices.

Edible bowls

Edible bowls are a terrific way to show off ice cream. They are also a great way to kick an ice-cream sundae bar up to the next level.

Because these bowls are made from a sweet, crisp shell, you could use them for other desserts as well.

No ice-cream maker? No problem

▶ This simple malted ice cream takes just 15 minutes to make

MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This ice cream is made without the need for an ice-cream maker.

So if you haven't bought one — or don't have the space for one — this luscious and super-rich frozen treat is the perfect thing for you.

We opted for an old-fashioned malt flavour, but you can leave that out if you'd prefer plain vanilla.

If you want to make chocolate, simply whisk 75 ml (1/3 cup) cocoa powder into the cream.

You also can freeze the mixture in individual dishes if you like.

Easy Malted Ice Cream

Preparation:

- 1 In a large bowl, whisk half of the sugar with egg yolks. Set aside.
- 2 In a large saucepan over medium heat, combine cream, malted milk powder, salt and remaining sugar. Bring to a simmer.
- 3 Once cream mixture is hot, while whisking eggs pour cream slowly into bowl of eggs. Stir in vanilla.
- 4 Refrigerate mixture until completely chilled, about 4 hours.

Ingredients:

- 300 ml (1 1/4 cups) sugar, divided
- 9 egg yolks
- 1 l (4 cups) heavy cream
- 175 ml (3/4 cup) malted milk powder
- Pinch of salt
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) vanilla extract

- 5 When mixture is completely chilled, beat with an electric mixer until thick, 8 to 10 minutes. Transfer to a freezer-safe, airtight container and freeze until firm, at least 4 hours. Enjoy within 3 days.

Wow with your wedding wine

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA

While planning a wedding is no piece of cake, I admit that I only had two responsibilities during the organization of my nuptials: Select the wine for the reception and stay out of the way.

With dozens of thirsts to quench, what you really want is the biggest bottle filled with the tastiest juice for the least money. When it comes to size, the selection of wines in 1.5-litre bottles is varied with the majority of vintage versions offering good value for the price.

Concha y Toro's Frontera line from Chile is one of the most consistent, with the white 2010 Sauvignon Blanc ($13.95 - $20.49) offering fresh, lean, citrusy fruit flavours and the red 2010 Cabernet Sauvignon Merlot ($14.95 - $20.49) serving up ripe, wild berry fruit and balanced acidity.

In the end, though, realize that most guests will only have one glass during dinner. The majority will be watching the clock waiting for the cash bar to open and won't remember much about the wine the day after.

Li through to French Open final

Li Na is back in a Grand Slam final, reaching her second straight major championship match by defeating Maria Sharapova 6-4, 7-5 Thursday in the French Open semifinals.

The Australian Open runner-up, who became the first Chinese player to reach a Grand Slam final, was able to chase down nearly everything Sharapova had to offer on Court Philippe Chatrier.

"I'm sure they showed the match ... in China, so ... maybe children, they saw the match, and they think that maybe one day they can do the same — or even better," said Li, who is the first Chinese player to reach the French

Open final.

In Saturday's final, Li will face defending champion Francesca Schiavone. The fifth-seeded Schiavone, who last year became the first Italian woman to win a Grand Slam singles title, defeated No. 11 Marion Bartoli of France 6-3, 6-3.

- NBA final even heading to Dallas

Dirk Nowitzki and the Dallas Mavericks put a stunning end to their misery in Miami.

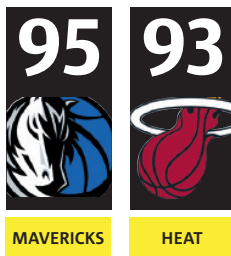

Now they have a chance to win their first NBA title without ever coming back to South Florida.

Nowitzki made the tie-breaking layup with 3.6 seconds left, and the Mavericks roared back from 15 points down in the fourth quarter to beat the Heat 95-93 on Thursday night and tied the NBA final at one game apiece.

Capping a furious rally by scoring Dallas's final nine points, Nowitzki's final two baskets were left-handed — despite a torn tendon on that non-shooting hand. He finished with 24 points.

Dwyane Wade had 36 points for Miami, but his desperation three-pointer was off at the buzzer.

Seemingly out of the game when the Heat led 88-73 with 7:15 remaining, Dallas held the Heat to just one field goal from there. A three-pointer by Mario Chalmers with 24.5 seconds left tied it just two seconds after a Nowitzki three made it 93-90.

But after a timeout, Jason Kidd ran the clock down before getting the ball to Nowitzki, who drove into the lane, spun back to the left and made the layup.

Jason Terry fuelled the comeback with a couple of jumpers and finished with 16 points. Shawn Marion had 20 points for the Mavericks, who had lost four straight finals games in Miami since taking a 2-0 lead in the 2006 series. LeBron James scored 20 points for the Heat.

Games 3, 4 and 5 will be played in Dallas.

THIS DATE IN BASEBALL

1918 — Dutch Leonard of the Boston Red Sox pitched his second no-hitter, blanking the Detroit Tigers 5-0.

1932 — Lou Gehrig became the first American League player to hit four home runs in a game, helping the New York Yankees beat the Philadelphia A's 20-13. The event was overshadowed by the resignation of John McGraw as manager of the New York Giants.

1954 — Henry Thompson of the New York Giants hit three home runs and drove in eight runs in a 13-8 win against the St. Louis Cardinals. Willie Mays drove in the other five runs with two homers.

1971 — Ken Holtzman of the Chicago Cubs pitched his second no-hitter, beating the Cincinnati Reds 1-0.

1978 — Dave Johnson became the first major leaguer to hit two pinch-hit grand slams in a season. His grand slam in the ninth inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 5-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

1989 — Los Angeles and Houston played 22 innings at the Astrodome in the longest night game in National League history — 7 hours, 14 minutes. The Astros won the game on Rafael Ramirez's RBI single off Jeff Hamilton, normally the Dodgers' third baseman. When the game ended, Fernando Valenzuela was playing first and Eddie Murray was at third.

"I get to spread the word on how your day, evening or weekend will shape up with our ever-changing weather here in Alberta". WEEKDAYS 6AM

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Don't worry if little things go wrong today because what happens this weekend will make up for it.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 There is something in which you don't want to partake. But if you make an effort, you might enjoy it.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Why are you chasing after something you can't have? It's not for you.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 It is your thoughts that create your world so you must strive to keep your mind on positive things.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 Take it on faith that life has great meaning. Great things still await you.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 Stand outside yourself and try to see how others perceive you. The view may surprise you. Don't be so touchy!

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 You've been too caught up in your own petty problems of late, and now you must see the bigger picture.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 You have every right to speak your mind — there is no such thing as a taboo subject.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 You seem rather fearful of late. For no good reason you believe that the sky is going to fall.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Don't make too many demands on yourself today. The more rest you get now, the more fun you'll have.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 There's a lot of tension in the air right now. There's nothing to fear.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. Make it your mission to cheer up loved ones who are feeling depressed. ♀ SALLY BROMPTON
